

Cassandra Chess

E-mail: cassandra_carter@hotmail.com

Cassandra Chess is currently employed by the U.S. DHHS Office of Population Affairs, Office of Adolescent Pregnancy Programs as a Public Health Analyst. Prior to becoming a Federal employee she was a program coordinator of two teen pregnancy prevention programs. One was located in Alexandria, VA at the Alexandria Health Department (Alexandria, VA) for youth 9 – 17; and the other was in Baltimore, MD at the University of Maryland at Baltimore Adolescent Clinic targeting patients 12-21.

Cassandra's current volunteer activities include being a board member (9 years) for Project Discovery, a college preparatory program for high school students. In the past she coordinated an agency team (HRSA) for the Susan G Komen Race for the Cure and served as a mentor for two adolescent girls.

Cassandra is from the Metropolitan Washington DC area, born in D.C. and raised primarily in Prince Georges County MD, where she still reside.

Her professional areas of interests are Minority, Adolescent and Women's Health, policy development and analysis